Support the Campaign!

The International Coalition for the Decade has sent a Proposal for an International Declaration on Children's Right to Violence-free Education and to Peace and Non-violence Education to the 192 permanent delegations of the member countries represented at UNESCO. The aim is that this text will be adopted by the General Conference.

This declaration explicitly introduces two significant points that are implied, but not specifically stated, in current international instruments pertaining to the rights of the child:

- children's right to violence-free education
- children's right to peace and non-violence education

The full text of this proposal is available in several languages on our website: www.nvpdecade.org

Numerous influential figures already support the campaign, including several Nobel Peace laureates, and over 900 associations.

To succeed, we need to show that a wide range of organizations and influential figures worldwide support this Proposal.

We need everyone's help to succeed.

Thank you in advance for your support.
